DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 and 5-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Ohashi et al (US 6,230,094 B1) in view of Sugita et al (US 5,440,603). The control system of Ohashi et al has first and second microcomputers (4, 6), a monitor program 14, and timer 16, which corresponds to the claimed timer means except that it is not included in microcomputer 4 and is not expressly disclosed as down counting. Sugita et al teaches that it is known to provide a microcomputer with down count monitor timer incorporated therein. See column 4, lines 1-29. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the timer 16 in the control system of Ohashi et al as a down count timer included in the microcomputer, as taught by Sugita et al, since this merely involves selecting elements of art recognized suitability for an intended purpose. See MPEP § 2144.07.

The applied reference Ohashi et al has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art only under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) might be overcome by: (1) a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not an invention "by another"; (2) a showing of a date of invention for the claimed subject matter of the application which corresponds to subject matter disclosed but not claimed in the reference, prior to the effective

Art Unit: 3747

U.S. filing date of the reference under 37 CFR 1.131; or (3) an oath or declaration under 37 CFR 1.130 stating that the application and reference are currently owned by the same party and that the inventor named in the application is the prior inventor under 35 U.S.C. 104, together with a terminal disclaimer in accordance with 37 CFR 1.321(c). For applications filed on or after November 29, 1999, this rejection might also be overcome by showing that the subject matter of the reference and the claimed invention were, at the time the invention was made, owned by the same person or subject to an obligation of assignment to the same person. See MPEP § 706.02(I)(1) and § 706.02(I)(2).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Given their broadest reasonable interpretation, claims 1 and 6 embrace the prior art as applied above. As is conventional with watch dog timer circuits, timer 16 of Ohashi et al establishes an acceptable range of a monitoring interval during which a monitoring signal must be received to reset the timer. Note the description at column 5, lines 4-18 of Sugita. It would have been obvious to provide the timer 16 of Ohashi et al as a down counter that counts clock pulses as taught by Sugita. Claims 1 and 6 are not necessarily limited to an operation as set forth at page 7, lines 14-23, of applicant's specification.

It appears that the above rejection might be overcome by showing that the subject matter of the reference and the claimed invention were, at the time the invention was made, owned by the same person or subject to an obligation of assignment to the same person.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
